If such costs of Arconic exceed such unpaid balance, Supplier shall be liable for and shall pay the difference to Arconic. With respect to any cancelled part of this Contract, Arconic shall have no further liability to Supplier. Supplier will thereupon immediately stop work on this Contract, or the terminated portion thereof, and notify any subcontractors to do likewise. Arconic's sole and exclusive liability and Supplier's sole and exclusive remedy for such termination will be payment (i) for finished goods and services delivered or performed according to schedule prior to termination, subject to Arconic's sole acceptance, at the applicable price specified, and (ii) of Supplier's actual cost of the terminated portion of the work to the extent such costs are reasonable and are properly allocated under generally accepted accounting principles, excluding any lost or anticipated profits, and (iii) of Supplier's actual cost of discharging liabilities for termination of the applicable subcontracts and orders to the extent reasonable and allocated as stated in (ii) above, and (iv) of Supplier's reasonable cost of protection of incomplete work or property in which Arconic has an interest. Arconic reserves the right to direct the manner of disposition of any work or property that Arconic pays for hereunder. Supplier's termination claim must be submitted to Arconic in writing not later than ninety (90) days from the date Supplier receives Arconic's termination notice. In no event will Arconic's liability in the aggregate exceed the total price, which would have been paid hereunder for the goods or services to be provided to Arconic by Supplier had this Contract not been terminated. Notwithstanding the foregoing, to the extent such termination involves goods or services which Supplier normally manufactures or supplies for distribution to other customers, and not specifically manufactured to fulfill this Contract, Arconic's sole and exclusive liability and Supplier's sole and exclusive remedy will be payment for finished goods delivered or services performed according to schedule prior to termination, subject to Arconic's final acceptance.
